

Sheila Brennemann

Sheila has been an employee of the Central Arizona Project for over 20 years. Besides being a trained facilitator using collaborative models in her facilitation work, Sheila's primary role at CAP has consisted of her work as a legal assistant for the CAP Legal Department. Many of you may know her from her work with CAP water contracts.

Sheila has two certificates of facilitation training; one in techniques for effective public participation from the International Association for Public Participation, July, 2003, and she has a certificate in mastering the techniques of participation from the Institute of Cultural Affairs, in 2005.

Sheila was the facilitator for the CAGR D Plan of Operation public process, a member of the Support Team in ADD Water for the past two years and has facilitated internal groups at CAP as well.
